

LATEST NEWS FROM EUROPE.

THE PARALLELISM WILL NOT ATTEMPT TO FORCE THE FIGHTING.

The expectation of a serious discussion in the House of Commons on Monday morning, in connection with the Home Rule bill, has been disappointed. The House has been closed since the late afternoon of Saturday, and the members have been unable to get into the House for the morning session.

London, Feb. 11.—Parliament is open, but the fight between Home Rule and Toryism is not yet in full swing. The debate on the Home Rule bill has been postponed until the morning of Monday, and the House has been closed since the late afternoon of Saturday.

There will be no immediate attempt by the Home Rule party to force the issue. The House has been closed since the late afternoon of Saturday, and the members have been unable to get into the House for the morning session.

The wind up of last night's sitting, which, as I have already telegraphed you, was marked by the arrest of James Gilhooly, was very interesting. Long before the close of the sitting every one knew that the Home Rule party would not attempt to force the issue.

The wind up of last night's sitting, which, as I have already telegraphed you, was marked by the arrest of James Gilhooly, was very interesting. Long before the close of the sitting every one knew that the Home Rule party would not attempt to force the issue.

This decision was reached at 10 o'clock, and from that time on Gilhooly conducted himself after the fashion of the traditional red man, who, when tied to a stake, narrates all he has done to his enemies.

When the sitting was over Gilhooly marched out to meet his fate. Nearly a hundred members of Parliament assembled after him to see him meet it. At the entrance he was pointed out by two detectives who had been in the lobby, and twenty Scotland Yard men, firmly convinced that he was the crowd of members there to help the Irishman escape, pounced upon him all at once.

The detection at first, inclined to be high and mighty, grew humble on learning that the crowd consisted almost exclusively of members of Parliament, and conducted the prisoner to a lane north, where a constable was waiting for him. When the constable was mentioned Gilhooly indignantly affected to have heard of it, and asked what it might be, showing every evidence of surprise.

loyal Tory demonstration, proposed three cheers for Balfour. Three mighty groans were given, and the deluded Tory was left with his hat knocked over his eyes and with his nerves very much shaken.

The whole event was a triumph for Gilhooly, and not in the least calculated to redound to the credit of Mr. Balfour, although the latter is reported to be much elated over his success, and to consider his action in arresting a member of the House who was there performing his duty quite worthy of Cromwell.

Mr. Sullivan has again been publishing notices of suppressed branches of the League, and of the ill-used tenants of Lord Clarendon, and of the ill-used tenants of Lord Clarendon, and of the ill-used tenants of Lord Clarendon.

Lord Clarendon's purpose to take his revenge last night was to show the House of Commons that he was not a man to be trifled with. He was not a man to be trifled with.

Mr. Balfour has kept up wonderfully well the average number of arrests and imprisonments during the week. He has kept up wonderfully well the average number of arrests and imprisonments during the week.

The publication of the text of the Austro-German treaty was fully explained by Prince Bismarck in the Reichstag to be simply another guarantee of peace. Europe took the news with a sigh of relief.

The pay of Turkish officials is getting more and more out of hand, and every place there is saved is spent on national armaments. But with all this Prince Bismarck says there is no danger of an early war, and most people are inclined to believe him.

Another man, who considers himself a very big man indeed, made a speech this week. The speaker was Lord Salisbury, and he made a number of tough and Tory puns based on the name of the speaker.

instruments the Crown Prince could not be considered out of danger. Bismarck has at last found a use for those murderous-looking knives of his, and his skill has saved the illustrious patient's life, for the present at any rate.

The bulletins from San Remo are rose colored because they are meant for the public consumption, but experts who have closely watched the case from the beginning are not so optimistic. Many people seem to forget that tracheotomy was performed, and to enable the patient to breathe.

As I write this comes in a special despatch from your Vienna correspondent that the great Prof. Schroetter has publicly re-affirmed his belief that the trouble in the Crown Prince's throat is cancer.

The country soldiers who make the laws of the little commune near Mons, in Belgium, have shown great wisdom in dealing with drunkards. A few months ago a law was passed making it a serious offense to be palpably drunk in Belgium.

The assertion that the famous memoirs of Lord Clarendon would be published in full next year is premature. It is first necessary to obtain the permission of the heirs of the Marquis de Castellan.

London tradesmen are pinning for the presence of Queen Victoria, who is expected to arrive in the city on Monday. They had little comfort for the absence of the English court in the presence of the Queen.

GUARDING AGAINST RIOT.

STRONG BODIES OF POLICE SENT INTO THE COAL REGION.

An attempt to be made on Monday to start the strike in the coal region, and to start the strike in the coal region, and to start the strike in the coal region.

Reading, Feb. 11.—The 240 Reading Coal and Iron policemen are being despatched to-night to various new points in the coal region. The officials of the company know that the feeling among the lawless classes in the regions is like a train of powder, and that all it takes to set it off is a spark.

The bulk of the miners are firm as ever, and are not likely to be swayed by the conservative members to prevent demonstrations toward Monday's strike. The miners are not likely to be swayed by the conservative members to prevent demonstrations toward Monday's strike.

The individual colonies were all the week, and the individual colonies were all the week, and the individual colonies were all the week.

Twenty-seven hot rounds fought in Hoboken yesterday morning. Dan Custy and John Monahan, two middle weight, fought a fierce battle with two-ounce gloves yesterday morning in the dining room of a Jersey hotel.

Twenty-seven hot rounds fought in Hoboken yesterday morning. Dan Custy and John Monahan, two middle weight, fought a fierce battle with two-ounce gloves yesterday morning in the dining room of a Jersey hotel.

TWO POLICEMEN PRISONERS.

Katie Allen Pinned Out the Men in Blue When she Accused.

Katie Allen, the young girl who was reported to the police Tuesday night as missing from her home at 1,666 Third avenue, and who on Friday caused Michael Jennings, a bartender, to be arrested on a charge of assault, stood before Justice Duffy in the Harlem Police Court yesterday morning and charged that the police officers had been guilty of assault.

Katie was arrested Thursday night at the corner of Third avenue and Ninety-second street, and looked up on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by her mother. Capt. O'Connor questioned the girl closely, and as a result of his examination, put the case into the hands of Mr. Gerry's society the next day.

Yesterday morning Agent Stoeck of the society brought Katie to the Eighty-eighth street station, and she was taken to the station of men drawn up in double file, and the girl was taken to the station of men drawn up in double file.

Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began.

Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began.

Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began, and Malone's record before the game began.

JOHN SHERMAN STAY AT IT.

Says Cleveland Warmly Felt Elected and Cautious Black Noses to Prove It.

In the banquet room at Delmonico's last evening 250 members of the Republican Club sat down to dinner to celebrate the 79th birthday of Abraham Lincoln. John Sherman sat next to the President, Gen. Edward T. Barrett, and amidst fraternal wishes "Marching through Georgia" was sung.

Chancellor M. Dewey entered the room, and he was welcomed with a clapping of hands. The applause grew until three cheers were given for him. Senator Evans and ex-Senator Warner, and Thomas C. Platt, then took the floor.

Senator Sherman then set himself to maintain the proposition that fraud against the Republican party was the only thing that was going to ruin the party.

Senator Sherman then set himself to maintain the proposition that fraud against the Republican party was the only thing that was going to ruin the party.

Senator Sherman then set himself to maintain the proposition that fraud against the Republican party was the only thing that was going to ruin the party.

Senator Sherman then set himself to maintain the proposition that fraud against the Republican party was the only thing that was going to ruin the party.

ALBERT, SIX-DAY CHAMPION.

SEVEN MILES AHEAD OF THE RECORD AND WRECK AS A DAILY.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.

The leader of the six-day team race, Albert, who has been making a record of seven miles a day, and who has been making a record of seven miles a day.